

iO Horus

In Egyptian mythology, Horus is a Falcon-God whose eye was damaged in a feud, the Eye of Horus is a well-known symbol representing protection, healing, and restoration – fitting themes for our time.

The ends of the shade do not actually meet and our Shoji-paper diffuser wraps instead around a half tube of clear polycarbonate, allowing the light to flow with no shadow cast. At the same time, the fins extend beyond the diffuser adding visual interest and giving an eye-like appearance. You'll notice that the two sides are slightly offset too, which adds a dynamic asymmetry to the design.
